

Corporate Ethics Management Council

Networking is all about opportunities and developing valuable relationships. The Corporate Ethics Management Council provides the only national forum for senior ethics and compliance executives to network with true peers who are facing the same challenges in managing ethics and compliance programs in their company.

We convene executives from a broad spectrum of industry, government, and non-profit organizations to address top-line challenges facing Canadian leaders.

Today's senior ethics and compliance executives face the ongoing challenge of keeping ethics and compliance policies and practices up-to-date and top-of-mind for employees and company leaders. More than policies must be in place – organizations want a culture of integrity. This takes time and effort.

The Corporate Ethics Management Council (CEMC) is the only national network in Canada designed to help your organization keep track of the latest thinking on ethics and compliance.

The CEMC meets three times a year in major cities across Canada to discuss common challenges, emerging issues, and leading practices in corporate ethics and compliance.

Benefits of Membership

- Develop your personal and professional network from a cross-section of industries across Canada.
- Draw on a network of senior ethics and compliance peers with whom you can collaborate to answer your questions about specific elements of your ethics and compliance program in a noncompetitive manner.
- Access the members-only website, where you will find council materials, including past meeting presentations, research, and webinars.
- Earn Continuing Professional Development (CPD) credits while learning from a variety of sources.
- Showcase your work and expertise, and suggest speakers and themes that matter to you and your organization.

“ The council provides an opportunity to engage with ethics and compliance professionals from multiple industries and share alternate perspectives to ultimately reach the same goal.”

Grant Jackman, Compliance Analyst at Siemens Canada Ltd.

Who Should Join

While their titles vary, members of the council share a common responsibility for ethics and compliance programs within their organizations.

Members of the CEMC have the following titles:

- Chief Legal Counsel;
- General Counsel;
- Chief Compliance Officer;
- Corporate Ethics Officer;
- Vice-President, Regulatory Affairs.
